

have you seen?

Icon Coco Chanel was the muse for Chella Textiles' Coco Tweed—the first outdoor fabric to be made with chenille and boucle in the warp and weft of the weave. Shown here in Caribe, one of eight colors.
www.chellatextiles.com

It's the unofficial close of show season, and in case while running from HD Expo to ICFF and Neocon you've missed some of the latest and greatest introductions, we've got you covered, literally. Check out these fabrics, wallcoverings, and carpets to help you cover your next project.

DesignTex's Kimono Collection is made from 100 percent CS Trevira. Kamon, one of the patterns shown here, represents the chrysanthemum, a symbol of the imperial family of Japan. www.designtex.com

With Milliken's newest technology, Convergence (which took home honors at the recent Hospitality Design Expo and Conference) the pattern and color are integrated into the structure, so it reads as one. Pattern emerges through texture and texture through pattern to create an unexpected, complex new surface.
www.milliken.com/hospitality